ANNUAL REPORT
July 1st, 2011 - June 30th, 2012

Zoom by Jayleana Borges, OSS 5th Grader

At OSS we zoom into reading. We go right for it and don't stop! We get great ideas for our writing through reading and we have great imaginations. Us girls are focused and concentrated because of our teachers and tutors. We thank them for everything, they are the ones to get us to read more. We learn about nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs. It helps us with our writing. We learn about interesting facts and new words. It helps us with our reading. At OSS we zoom into reading. We go right for it and don't stop! Inspired by ZOOM!

With the fourth school year having ended in June 2012, Our Sisters' School, an independent, tuition-free middle school for the girls of Greater New Bedford continues to offer a rich academic program, community involvement and the opportunity for students to expand their horizons while being challenged and supported by all those who make the OSS voyage possible.

OUR SISTERS' SCHOOL MISSION

The mission of Our Sisters' School is to inspire and educate middle-school girls from the Greater New Bedford area to reach their full potential in a safe, supportive and challenging environment. Our Sisters' School provides a quality education and welcomes girls from diverse faiths, races and cultures.

LETTER FROM THE BOARD

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, I would like to start the New Year by thanking you all for your generous support of Our Sisters' School. Whether you have volunteered your time, wisdom or financial resources, you are the reason the school continues to offer an excellent educational opportunity to the middle-school girls of New Bedford.

Much growth has happened over the past four years. In 2012, we saw our second graduating class accept their diplomas with confidence and excitement for the voyage ahead. We have been gratified that so many have come back to visit, demonstrating that OSS is and will remain their extended home - a safe haven of nurturing staff and friends. Our Finance Committee continues to work vigilantly to make sure our operating budget of $850,000 reflects our size and is also sustainable over time with 75 percent of every dollar raised going directly into programming for our students. We continue to engage our Advisory Council of 30 able ambassadors and advocates for the school. Our ever-generous "Anonymous Angel" has allowed us take the "match" and start building a sustainability fund that has grown over the past few years through the kindness of many individuals and several grants.

Education remains the most powerful way to break the cycle of poverty. Through your support, OSS is able to give our students the tools they need to continue to pursue an education. Today our first graduates stand out in the community as examples of young women well launched toward a future that is productive for themselves, their families and the entire community.

Single sex education is a powerful way to advance opportunities for women. As Anna Pollina, head-of-school at all-girls Westover in Connecticut, said in a recent speech: "We are a girl's school by intention. It is not the absence of boys that defines us. It is the celebration of girls!"

Today, OSS celebrates its students as well as its community, of which you are all a vital part. Please come visit for a first -- or second or third -- time. The atmosphere remains as effervescent as always and hope is ever in the air!

Lisa Schmid Alvord
President, OSS Board of Trustees

"Although I spend a fair amount of time at the school, I still get blown away by the wonderful things that they are doing for those adorable girls."

LETTER FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

June of 2012 saw the passing of a major milestone in OSS growth: the graduation of the first class of students to attend all four years (5th – 8th grades) at Our Sisters' School – our second ever graduating class. These students and families took a brave, bold chance on enrolling in a brand new school for their 5th grade year and they became the pioneers and leaders who set the bar for all other classes who follow in their wake. Their special night of celebration brought closure to a year of focused and exciting activities throughout our 4th year of operation as a school.

EXPANDING HORIZONS FOR STUDENTS

Throughout the 2011-2012 School Year, OSS continued to create access and opportunities for our students through the generosity, collaboration and support of our amazing community partners. Students enrolled in a variety of summer programs with the support of the United Way and Church Home Society, among others, and our ongoing partnerships with the YWCA, Lloyd Center, Summer Stars Performing Arts Camp, Tabor Academy and Trips For Kids keeping the girls engaged and learning throughout the summer months. We were also able to deepen our partnership with Lloyd Center thanks to a generous grant from the CHT Foundation and to launch a school savings program for students with support from SouthernMass Credit Union. OSS families coordinated the first-ever OSS talent show at the May Family Fun Night, English teachers hosted a Poetry Slam in April, and we brought students outside for Neighborhood Clean-Ups with Operation Clean Sweep and around our school campus. 7th and 8th graders and families prepared for secondary school applications in partnership with Nativity Prep and imagined what their futures might hold beyond OSS. Our 5th graders had a special sleepover at the YWCA, our 8th graders exhibited botanical illustrations at the Buttonwood Zoo and the girls stayed busy learning and experiencing new things all year long.

SUPPORTING THE CREW

As a more established school program, OSS staff spent time this year focused on expanding the professional expectations for our staff by expanding staff professional development opportunities and formally implementing a new performance review system. We acknowledged the tremendous contributions made by our faculty during teacher appreciation week and challenged our teachers to be role models for others as presenters at the Greenlight for Girls Conference. Our Board and staff teamed up to plan and develop a new staffing model for implementation in the 2012-2013 school year including teaching fellows and a professional classroom teacher in addition to our AmeriCorps Volunteers. Our staff also acknowledged the high level of commitment demonstrated by families and students with certificates of appreciation for family service hours, student community service hours, attendance, chairing family committees, and family attendance at meetings. In addition, we planned for and recruited a Family Liaison to work with administrative staff members and family committees for the 2012-2013 school year. We were also excited to help launch a collaborative of leadership from local schools such as the Global Learning Charter Public School, Alma del Mar and Nativity Prep. This group is working to share professional development opportunities, partner on student recruiting and discuss other future ways we can support each other in mutually beneficial ways.

CHARTING THE COURSE FOR THE FUTURE OF OSS

Even as we celebrated the successes of this year, we continued to push ourselves to develop new goals and strategies for our future work as a school. Frequently our alumnae visited, ran events at the family picnic, greeted guests at graduation and shared their secondary school stories with students and staff. Building upon their experiences and a careful further analysis of assessment data (meticulously compiled into Excel by our UMass Dartmouth Endeavor volunteers) we made plans for our new teaching model, curriculum development and increased student admissions for the 2012- 2013 school year, now bringing enrollment up to 18 for both 5th and 6th grades. Our Board has also been supportive of and involved in plans for the Head of School Search and Transition following my announcement that the 2012-2013 school year will be my final one at OSS.

Our sincere thanks to each of you – our loyal crew members – for all that you do to keep OSS going and growing each day. We look forward to our 5th year as a school beginning in the fall of 2012 and to celebrating the successes and sharing the stories of our students and our school in the exciting year ahead. Thank you for sailing with us on this wonderful adventure.

With gratitude,

Lisa Yates, Executive Director

HIGHLIGHTS YEAR FOUR

- Held four alumnae events throughout the year, welcoming back OSS graduates on and off campus.
- We had the support of over 120 volunteers this year that helped contribute to over 4,000 hours of service.
- OSS introduced and established an online grading system for ease of teacher and staff use!
- Scheduled mandatory drop-in tutoring for students over the summer to provide additional support for students in need.
- Planned for and hired for a new teaching model for the 2012-2013 school year.
- Student Community Service Program logged over 730 hours.
- Over 80% of OSS students were placed in summer programs in the community and afar.
- OSS families completed 930 hours of service at the school.

REFLECTION FROM AMERICORP TEACHER, KRISTINA DOLCE

When I graduated from the University of Connecticut in 2010, I had no plans to become a middle-school teacher. I actually had no plans at all! I had spent an afternoon packing my apartment into boxes when I got an e-mail from the Women's Studies department head about teachers needed for an all-girls' school in New Bedford, Massachusetts. I applied, and then I rode in a car, a train and a bus to visit Our Sisters' School.

As soon I walked in the door, I fell in love. When I observed classes, girls were falling over themselves to answer math questions and write on the blackboard. Girls came right up to me and shook my hand, looked into my eyes and confidently asked me questions. "Do you like school here?" I asked, and the answer was always an enthusiastic "YES!" When it was time for me to say good-bye, one of the students asked me, "Are you going to be our teacher next year?" How could my own answer be anything but an equally-enthusiastic "YES!"?

Teaching at Our Sisters' School has been both the most challenging and most rewarding experience of my life so far. I have taught seventh-grade girls English and Social Studies for two years. During this time, I have watched two classes learn how to be critical, analytical readers and to feel confident in their own voices while writing. By the time they are in seventh grade, OSS girls aren't afraid to ask questions, to take up space, or to trust themselves while tackling challenges. Every day, my class challenged me to be a better teacher, to reflect on my actions and to set new goals. Every day, through their own efforts, my class inspired me to never be afraid to ask questions, and never to settle for good enough.

VOLUNTEERS

The volunteer community is an integral part of the success of Our Sisters' School. Each year, OSS volunteers perform many different roles during their time at the school. They cover the office, tutor our students, conduct small group music lessons, clean the school and give support to the staff and students. OSS volunteers invest time and energy to ensure a successful program for the students and school. Giving back to the community has become part of the educational program OSS has created and our students are reminded how important it is to give back by watching the many volunteers who give their time and energy to the school. We thank each of you for all that you have done and continue to do to make this school and community a safe and supportive environment for learning. If you are interested in learning more about volunteer opportunities please contact us at (508)994-1255 or by emailing info@oursistersschool.org.

Thank you to all of our 2011-2012 volunteers for having such an incredible impact on Our Sisters' School.

VISUAL AND PERFORMING ARTS PROGRAM IMPACTS OSS MELANIE LUPERON, 7TH GRADE

The art class at Our Sisters' School will never be ordinary. From individual projects to the teacher herself, nothing will ever match the independent style the school has taken. I can honestly say I've never seen anything like it. It's hard to come across something like what we have here and not be impressed.

Twice a week we have visual arts classes for a full hour. We walk in and know to get right to work. We know exactly how to do this because our art teacher, Ms. Wayss, is unlike any ordinary art teacher. Ms. Wayss is that "favorite aunt" who will have you working diligently and laughing hard all at the same time. She is full of humor and possessed of an amazing ability to change people (and not just the way they draw).

The art being done in our classroom is truly eye-opening. While making my own art, I have discovered more about myself than I knew existed. The class unlocks hidden and unhidden talent, and perfects them both. Most of us entered the fifth grade satisfied to draw stick figures for people and circles for spheres. Two years later, every lesson Ms. Wayss has given us has really paid off.

The work done at Our Sisters' School has been featured in many places. Thanks to Ms. Wayss' amazing efforts, I have seen both my own and my school mates' work presented at various locales in the community on multiple occasions. From the Ocean Explorium to our very own school grounds, our art work has had heads turning in excitement since the first day of OSS's first year. Most schools don't know that workers like Ms. Wayss exist; instead, they hire artists to teach students the same old lessons for 15 minutes once a month.

Ms. Wayss not only has us create beautiful pieces of work, but educates us on these pieces as well. At my present age in a different school I would have no idea what a "Georgia O'Keeffe-style watercolor" is. I wouldn't know that such marvelous pieces of abstract art could exist, or that they are being created afresh every day. I can honestly reveal that I used to believe that watercolor palettes were only useful for coloring water and decorating random objects. Now it is safe to say that Ms. Wayss has properly taught us things like how to create crayon "resists," incorporate texture with plastic wrap or salt, "blot" a brush and many other techniques.

But our art classes involve much more than mere watercolor. Pieces I have made since fifth grade include: wire sculptures, linoleum, soap and styrofoam relief carvings, mono-printing, clay totem poles, masks, abstract pastel eyes, three dimensional models of the first initial of our names using self-expression and symbolization, multiple charcoal drawings, and much, much more. Ms. Wayss always has something exciting and interesting to be completed. Even

"High school so far has been a great and exciting experience. The work is intense but proper time management has helped me to find time for friends, sports, clubs and academics. With my schedule I am never bored. Overall, I love my school and I thank OSS for preparing me."

~Arianna,
OSS Class of 2011

our homework assignments are unusual. She has had us draw many things in the sketchbooks that we receive at the beginning of each school year. From our drawings, she is able to measure our progress over time, and to gauge our ability to improve.

I have no doubt that when we graduate from Our Sisters' School all of us will have gained much more knowledge and insight than we ever would have in a normal school. Ms. Wayss offers in-depth, hands-on courses that offer more useful information than one could acquire from some million-page textbook on famous art and its long history. One example is our recent alumna, Samantha. After graduating from OSS, Samantha went on to Tabor Academy here in Massachusetts. And in her first year she won one of the very few art awards given at the academy. Even my sister has artwork from us on her walls! We have been told that, with proper effort, we can create art at the high-school or college level.

Ms. Wayss has shown us effort. And she has taught us to learn from our mistakes and to restart when necessary multiple times, with end results that are frequently astonishing. People tend to look wide-eyed at many of the works in our art classroom; some have even gasped and exclaimed, "I want that!" We have been taught since starting the art class how to apply our skill and knowledge, solve problems, and be responsible for our doings and our actions. These not only apply to the art we make, but to our real lives and everything in them. The art program at Our Sisters' School should always remain just the way it is today. For all of us it has been fun, entertaining, eye-opening, mind testing, humorous and serious. All at once.

"High school...all I can say is that it is BUSY. When you get your assignments, try to do them ASAP! Don't procrastinate."

HAPPINESS

JAELIANA ORTEGA, OSS CLASS OF 2012

The way you see things
The way you hear things
It's your perspective of a day
That's your point of view

The way you feel about things
If you think it's good or not?
The way you understand something from a point of view
That's your opinion

Your opinion, it's your judgment
To help you make life decisions
Will you enjoy your day?
Is something worth ruining your day?

Something will make you happy, every day
But it's how you see your day
With your point of view
And using your opinion to decide
Whether you are grateful for it.

But, you ask me, for my judgment?
Or, my opinion?
My point of view?
Well, it depends on how you see it

It's how you live your day
Will you laugh? Smile? It's a new day!
There's room for new opportunity, new things to learn,
There's room for error, but we grow from that.

Look around you.
These girls? Don't they make you happy?
Do you not laugh all day with them?

I do, these girls make me happy.
I live most of my days with them!
Are you happy about it?
Well, use your point of view skills.
What's your opinion?
Are you happy?

Yeah, me too!
